for you, and see that you are taken care of. You will certainly like him. The more I see of him the better I like him. He is going to have some team over here, you would be surprised to see who is coming. I am kinder scared about myself after seeing who is coming. McLendon told me he had written you, and he would see that you and I should have a nice room, and, believe me, kiddo, I am going to look after the part of the rope.

"I thought I would drop you a line or two to let you know I had gotten here. Write me some time when you have time. Your old pal."

Another letter is as follows: "Dear—what do you think about the chance of getting Russell up here next year, and do you think he will leave A. & M.? Please don't mention this to any one. Where does he live? Maybe we will send somebody down to see him, that is, if you think there is any chance of his coming. Write me at once about this. Sincerely yours

"If S. if you think you can do anything with him, we will pay you for your expenses to go down to see him."

PLENTY OF SPEED AMONG SPIDERS

Anderson have been showing up in grand style and will in all probability make the team.

Over the Hurdles.

In the hurdles Dobson is banking on Satterfield and Durham to bring the Red and Blue home to victory. Satterfield has had quite a little experience along this line, as he was John Smith's mainstay in the hurdles for several seasons. He has had the added advantage of being under good supervision during his entire athletic career, starting out under Coach Haseman and then under the watchful eye of Coach Jones, and under the expert direction of Dobson.

Durham has had little opportunity, but seems to have a great abundance of natural ability, and under Dobson should become a first rate track athlete. Durham does not confine himself to the hurdles, but gives a great deal of attention to the weights, and it is in these events that Dobson expects the big follow to shine. Kloveasahl is also out for the shot-put, and will run Durham a hard race for premier honors in this event. Heubel, Kloveasahl and Durham seem to be the best bets in the jumps, and with sufficient practice will make the fellows from some of the larger colleges go "some" to beat them out.

"Fritz" Jones, the classy little end that played on the championship football team last year, and Hahke, a young man from among the wilds of Highland Park, will form Dobson's foundation for a winning bunch of pole vaulters.

The first meet the college has will be held the night of February 7 at the Blue's Armory, this affair will be a dual meet between the Spiders and the Blues, and will give Coach Dobson an excellent opportunity to watch his charges in action.

Newcomb Leads Trapschoolers.

Pinehurst, N. C., January 24.—Charles H. Newcomb, of the Independent Gun Club, Philadelphia, shooting from the twenty-one yard mark, today won the handicap trophy in the seventh annual midwinter trapschoolers' tournament here with a score of 55 out of a possible 60. Six other divided cash prizes of $100 these being W. H. Patterson, Buffalo, 49; D. L. Culver, Jersey City, 47; T. McMillan, Pelety, O., tied at 41; T. L. McMillan, Atlanta, Ga., tied at 37; and Charles C. McMillan, Charlotte, N. C., and F. D. McMahon, New York, with 36 each.

Joe Boehling Signs

Washington, D. C., January 24.—Joe Boehling, picked from the Richmond sandlots and converted last season into one of the best left-handers on the mound, has finally come to terms with the Washington baseball club. After a short conference with Manager Griffith in the latter's office this afternoon, matters were adjusted, and Boehling affixed his signature to a one-year contract.

It is evident that Boehling was forced to accept less money than he requested, but he is expected to increase over the figures called for in his 1913 document.

"I did not sign for what I thought I was worth, under my showing last year," said Boehling, "but I am pretty well satisfied with the terms accepted. I am ready to show the Old Fox that my performances last year were not flukes."

Boehling, during the winter months has taken on many pounds of superfluous flesh, which he must work off at Charlottesville in order to be in condition when the hot taps. Outside of this, which must be done during the lay-off, Boehling appears to be in the pink of condition.

"I have been spending most of my spare time hunting and fishing in the Richmond and I am just itching to get back in harness."

VIRGINIA WILL NOT BE AFFECTED

Games With Other Schools to Be Arranged—May Play Catholic University.

Charlottesville, Va., January 24.—The action of the general faculty of Virginia in prohibiting the continuance of intercollegiate athletic relations with teams representing Georgetown University will not affect the future of athletics at Virginia in any material way, so far as can be observed. Virginia can arrange her schedule so that the income over expenditures will be as great as it has been in the past.

In football, for instance, past two big games on Lambert Field would equal the profits on the Georgetown game—only $2,000. The football games last November the total gate receipts were over $5,000. It is easy to conceive of the same thing coming from the South that would realize $1,200 apiece.

As far as baseball and basketball are concerned, the cancellation of games will result in an actual saving to Virginia, for the simple reason that she makes more by not playing than by contests with Georgetown have never resulted in any profit, either here or in Washington.

It is true that the three diamond games scheduled have been played on Georgetown's field, but the same cannot be said of the three basketball games. Virginia gave when the Blue and Gray came to Charlottesville.

It appears, therefore, that Virginia will suffer no financial loss in any of the three departments of sport mentioned above, and will encounter no difficulty in arranging a schedule that will be equally as profitable from a monetary standpoint.

Virginia may lose some of the spectacular feature of intercollegiate athletics by not appearing in the capital, but she gains the opportunity of playing either Gallaudet or Catholic University, either of which she would prefer to Georgetown.

There is nothing in the faculty resolution that would prevent Virginia from competing against Georgetown in the South Atlantic championship and as far as can be learned, she will undoubtedly enter the usual squad. The presence of Coach Dobson in the same events, would make no difference to Virginia. While no official expression has been made by the Virginia authorities, there seems to be no reason, in fact, why Virginia should not meet early in March.

Since the meeting of the college is an invitation to which all colleges are invited to compete, why should Virginia decline to take part? Of course, Virginia could not oppose Georgetown in the annual relay race, for the Southern Athletic Union has the Blue and Gray the only other entrant in the event.

MASSANUTTS TOO MUCH FOR EASTERN

Heavier Quint Overwhelms Lighter Opponents, Winning by Score of 29 to 21.

Massanutts, Va., January 24.—In an exceedingly rough and hotly contested game of basketball, Massanutts Academy, of Woodstock, defeated Eastern College here this afternoon in the local gymnasium by the score of 29 to 21. The visitors outweighed the college quint many pounds to the player, and simply overpowered the Eastern team with their strength during the first few minutes of the game. The second period the play was about evenly matched, although very rough, and several times the game was stopped for quarreling, which resulted in blows. Starting for Eastern College were Kibler and McDevitt, who both played their last games of the season, and did much of the local's scoring.

Massanutts High School basketball team went to Alexandria last night, where they were defeated at basketball by the high school five of that place. The final score stood 16 to 6.

Yale Not to Meet Penn.

Philadelphia, Jan. 24.—The Yale crew will not meet the University of Pennsylvania over the American Henley course April 11, as was recently announced. It is now the date is too early for the Yale men, who have a new coach, and feel that they will not be familiar with his system so early in the season.

WALTER JOHNSON

The great right-hander of the Washington American League team, who is going to pitch his team into a pennant in 1914, according to the predictions of Manager Clark Griffith, of the Senators. The Old Fox declares that he is in these pitching four out of five games in the big squabble next October. Only five games will be necessary, if you believe Griffith, to win the world's series for Washington. Johnson will pitch and win the first throw some one else to labor in the third battle, and if it is lost, the Iowa marvel will then go back and win the fourth and fifth games. Very simple, in the winter.

would have an array of wonders. It is refusal to accept this consistent refusal on the part of the manager to say what he is going to do in the matter of chasing the pennant. Here, before we have won every pennant ever battled for—in January, indeed, we have clinched it as early as mid-November, and now we come to January, piling past at a surprising rate, and a manager of the Richmond team absolutely refuses to commit himself. Though disconcerting, as we have remarked, it is so tremendously different that it is entertaining.

Frank Dobson, who knows Ryan well, sees nothing peculiar in this action. He is firmly of the opinion that Ryan is going to satisfy even the most captious of fans. He believes that Ryan has had enough experience and of sufficient variety to make him just the man that Richmond needs, and Frank Dobson is no mean judge of baseball and of men.

Will Busch Sign?

Some credence is lent to the rumor, published earlier in The Times-Dispatch, that Heimo Busch, of the Goubers, was flirting with the Federal League. Busch has not signed his contract to manage Petersburg next season, say those who apparently know where they speak, and that's one of the reasons why so little is heard from Cockadeville concerning prospects for the season. Another significant feature is that in all of the trades suggested thus far by Petersburg, the club officials have been transacting the business.

Just this much is known, Busch is in Cincinnati, and is saying nothing. The probability has come to the conclusion that a waiting game is as good as any kind of a game. But Busch is too good a man for Petersburg to let go. He has always produced a club which, if it wasn't winning a pennant, was with striking distance at the close of the season.

Will Be Four-Cornered Race

Belmont College, N. C., athletic affairs have been receiving very little attention at Benedictine. Matters are rapidly righting themselves, however, and planning for a championship baseball team goes merrily on. At a recent meeting of the general athletic association, Ernest Pollard, unanimously elected manager of the cadets' baseball team for 1914. His selection had a great deal to do with the settlement of the dispute regarding the departure of Father Jeremiah "Pol" as very popular at the Catholic school, and his election gave general satisfaction. He was manager of the Cadets' football team last fall, and arranged a very good schedule and clearly proved his worth as a manager. Owing to his late election, Manager Pollard has not had an opportunity to arrange his complete schedule, but promises to have it ready within the next few days.

The schedule will call for at least twenty-five games, the majority of these being with the most important teams throughout the State. The Cadets were very fortunate in securing the services of Scott, a first baseman who played for the Georgia Tech last season. From all reports Scott is a wonder; he bats and throws left-handed. The addition of Scott to the infield gives Benedictine an inner defense that reminds one of Connie Mack's wonderful aggregation in miniature.

Barrett will be at the half-way station for the Cadets, with Manager Pollard again in the shortfield, and with ever reliable "Nick" Parsons on third. Fletcher behind the bat ranks with the best in the city at the receiving end, and his terrific batting has broken up many a game.

In the outfield Benedictine will have Street, West and Dugan, of last year's team, as a nucleus, and with the wealth of new material on hand no trouble will be encountered in getting a first-class outer bulwark together. In the twirling department "Fritz" Overman will again have the proud position as the Mathewson of the team, with Curran, the lad who made such a good showing last year, a close second choice. And last, but not least, by any means, the Cadets have been strengthened immeasurably by the addition of "Plug" Amos to their ranks.

John Marshall Ready to Fight.

A resume of the prospects of John Marshall was given in detail last Sunday, and there is little else to add, except that the Marshallites do not recognize the other teams' claim to the cup as yet, all of the public school lads being imbued with the spirit that made Missouri famous. You've always got to show those fellows. With eight of last year's letters again in fold, John Marshall should have little trouble in turning out a team that will eclipse the fine record set by the team of 1913. The public school is well fortified in pitchers, heretofore a weak point. Craig and Atkinson, of last year's crop, are again in school, and with the addition of Woodward, the little C. C. A. star, the Marshallites will have a staff of twirlers that will rank with the best in the State. Asher, the brilliant outfielder of last year's nine, will try out for the position as guardian of the initial sack this season, and if his work in that position is as good as his outfield performance last year, the wearers of the Blue and White will have no cause to fear, so far as first base is concerned. Wood, last year's second baseman, is again in the fold, and will make a strong bid for a berth on the varsity again this spring. Mathews, at short, and Captain Tinsley, at the "hot corner," complete the likeliest looking infield that has represented the public school in several years. Turner and Blankenship form a strong foundation upon which to build an exceptionally good outer garden.

John Marshall has been lucky in one instance, at least, having secured young Sales, of the Kington team. Sales was a pupil at Madison School last year and was the champion athlete at the Cary Street school. This is a catcher of no mean ability and it is thought that he will be just the one to fill the position left vacant by the departure of Captain Hoover.

After all is said and done, it will be without a doubt the fastest race that the pro league has ever had. With all four teams evenly matched and fighting for everything gained, Richmond is promised as good an article of baseball as will be witnessed among youngsters anywhere. The prep league is a great thing for the city, and should receive far better support than it has in the past. One thing is certain, if at any time the fans and families want to see a hard-fought, clean-cut game of baseball played with every one of the eighteen players doing their level best all the time to win for dear old alma mater, journey to the camping grounds of the members of the prep league and watch them go after each other.

The official schedule of the league follows:

April 3—John Marshall High School vs. Richmond Academy.

April 7—McGuire's vs. Benedictine College.

FEDERATION MEET NEXT SATURDAY'S "ALL-FOR-GLORY"

1914, the "all-for-glory" record of indoor and outdoor events will be published for the year past, and the names appearing on the "all-for-glory" honor roll will hold the championship title to the event won until the records are published the following April. A booklet will be issued with the pictures of the winning men and boys, the date and place of the event, and the record established.

The federation meet on Saturday at the Blues Armory calls for the following events for senior seventeen years of age and older, all in one class: Fifty-yard dash, fifty-yard hurdle, twelve-pound shot-put, 880-yard run, pole vault, 440-yard dash, running high jump, one-mile run and relay races. The events will be run in the above order. The points will be first, 5; second, 3; third, 1. The relay race will not count in points, but the best relay team will be considered in the "all-for-glory" records for the year, and will have a place as a team in the "all-for-glory" booklet.

The federation, other than giving sanction for closed or dual meets, in no way controls the organizations who may care to compete with each other for medals, cups and prizes. It is only by the agreement of the organizations comprising the federation that the "all-for-glory" records will stand and hold a place in the championship records.

The federation has 224 men registered to date, and it is expected that at least half that number, representing at least eight of the seventeen clubs of the federation, will compete in the meet this coming Saturday night. Registration blanks were mailed by the secretary a week ago, and the full, detailed list of all entrants for each event will be published in The Times-Dispatch Friday morning, and this will constitute the official "all-for-glory" booklet.

Owing to the limited room for spectators, cards of admission will be issued at least fifty for its own use. The Richmond Light Infantry Blues are expected to separate off a team of their own, and the federation organizations will be their guests for the evening.
